

WATER WORLD

Jay-Z, Beyoncé and Johnny Depp have all been spotted in Bath, the Somerset city famous for its Roman heritage and, well, baths. Not only does it boast quirky markets and award-winning eateries like The Dower House Restaurant at The Royal Crescent Hotel (Royalcrescent.co.uk), you can relax in the Thermae Bath Spa (Thermaebathspa.com), where the water contains 42 natural minerals. The rooftop pool is the place to chill, but don't miss the aroma steam rooms infused with eucalyptus and frankincense oils.

The damage Fabulous readers can get a four-hour spa session (which usually costs £35) at the Thermae Bath Spa for the price of two hours (£25), Monday to Friday, until May 31, 2011. Valid for two people. Simply show this page when you arrive. To book, call 0844 888 0844.

Why not stay over? Book into Queensberry Hotel (Thequeensberry.co.uk), from £130 per room, per night.

Relax in the best bath ever

Catch Mark Ronson in Brighton this summer

Win five pairs of tickets to Shakedown festival on FB!

Go to Facebook.com/fabulous

BRIGHTON ROCKS

We heart Brighton – fish 'n' chips, stripy deckchairs, the pier – and we really heart music festivals. Put 'em together and you get Shakedown, this summer's red-hot one-dayer. The likes of Mark Ronson and Example will be taking to the stage in Stanmer Park on July 9. While you're in Brighton, head to Dermot O'Leary's restaurant Fishy Fishy (Fishyfishy.co.uk). And for some pre-festival pampering, visit The Lanes Health & Beauty (Thelaneshealthandbeauty.com) for hot stone massages and facials that come with pink fizz.

The damage Shakedown tickets cost from £35 each (Shakedown.co.uk).

Why not stay over? Stay at MyHotel (Myhotels.com), from £95 per room, per night.

POP SHOP

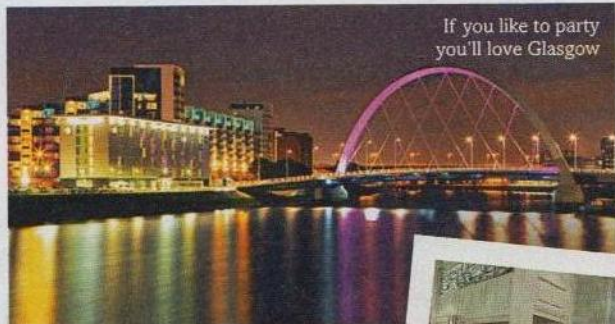

Louis Vuitton, Chanel, Cartier... the French are très à la mode, making Paris the perfect place for a big shopping day with the girls. Hop on the Eurostar from St Pancras, London, and you'll be in the City of Light in just over two hours. Head for the Champs-Élysées where, next to designer offerings, you'll find Promod, the Parisian Primark, and fab beauty superstore Sephora. Or get insider info on the Chic Shopping Paris tour, where locals will take you to secret boutiques. Ooh la la! Refuel with a post-purchase spritzer at The 7th, a posh new bar on Rue Joseph de Maistre. Up on the terrace you can see the sights without moving. Cultural bit: sorted.

The damage Return tickets to Paris on Eurostar (Eurostar.com) cost from £69 per person. Shopping tours with Chic Shopping Paris (Chicshoppingparis.com) cost from £88.

Why not stay over? We like Clarion Collection Opera Pavillon Hotel (Hotels.com), from £83 per room, per night.

Now that's what we call a view!

If you like to party you'll love Glasgow

NORTHERN STAR

Kate Moss has been spied partying in Glasgow, Scotland's hottest hang-out. So swap your day-cation for a night-cation and get ready to live it up at the city's celeb hot spots. Begin by checking into Hotel Indigo. It only opened last month and is fit for a princess. The rooms are gorge, plus you can book top technicians from False-nails.co.uk to come and treat you to a manicure. Once you're all done up, head to Chambre 69 (Chambre-69.com), which has hosted parties for Primal Scream.

The damage £50 should cover your bar bill. That doesn't include the hangover brekkie, though.

Why not stay over? Head to Hotel Indigo (Hotelindigo.glasgow.com), from £130 per room, per night.

Glam it up at Hotel Indigo